

Neurodiverse Communities

The Neurodiverse Communities committee serves as a bridge between parents and educators, facilitating effective communication and collaboration to ensure the child's educational journey is as successful and supportive as possible. By involving parents in the decision-making process, the committee helps create an inclusive and nurturing educational environment for all students with disabilities or special needs. Additionally, the special education committee creates a strong network of parents who share experiences, offer support and build lasting friendships. Fostering connections and camaraderie among parents enhances the overall well-being of families and contributes to a more inclusive and compassionate school community.

If you're interested in joining, please share your contact information with us. In the first month of school, we'll hold an initial meeting where we can all get to know each other and discuss ideas and gather feedback about the activities that would be most beneficial, productive, and desired for the committee. Some potential activities we're considering are Parent Meetings and Workshops, Parent Networking Events, Parent Mentor Meetings, inviting Guest Speakers, and offering Parent Advocacy Training. Your input and participation will be highly valued.

Rikki Hill is the chairperson for this committee. rikivoie@gmail.com
